Staff Reporter

"We also need to make sure that we engage the Central government in issues like water so that those things are sorted out. We cannot resolve these issues alone as a local authority.

By Rukudzo Musari

Acting Town Clerk Dr Prosper Chonzi has bemoaned the high cost of water treatment chemicals saying Council was failing to make payments to suppliers in time given an unsustainable tariff regime.

As a result, Dr Chonzi said Council was now owing one of the major suppliers Chemplex Holding over ZWL$350 million.

Dr Chonzi was speaking during a tour of various projects by Harare Development Coordinator Mr Tafadzwa Muguti and his team.

"The average daily water production for the month of September was 319 mega litres. Water treatment chemicals costs stood at USD $2 million. The monthly water coverage stood at 61,25 percent up from 58,66 percent during the previous month," he said.

"Major challenges in water supply include the high cost of water treatment chemicals, an unsustainable tariff regime, huge debt owed to suppliers of water treatment chemicals such as Chemplex.

Council owes suppliers of treatment chemicals over ZWL$350 million."

Advise to the residents on fire prevention measures

Dione Danai Zinhu

Assistant Chief Fire Officer, Mr Clever Mafoti, has urged residents to adhere to strict measures to prevent possible fire outbreaks in the city.

Commenting on the recent increase of fire cases in Harare and surrounding areas, Mr Mafoti urged residents to ensure that all electrical appliances are switched off when not in use.

He said before anyone plugs something they should make sure that the cord has not been frayed as this could cause a huge fire hazard.

"If you don't have a plug please buy one rather than using the naked cable direct to the circuit without the safety mechanism such as the fuse because the risk of fire is very high ".

"Residents should avoid inserting electrical cables to run under the carpets in homes and offices from one end to another because stepping on them regularly end up being naked leading to fire," said Mafoti.

He said in cases where residents use liquid gas, there must be maximum ventilation to avoid fire risks.

He encouraged regular inspection of buildings to check on probable fire causes.

"We urge inspection of all heating sources because they could trigger a fire to happen hence inspection should be done annually by professional."

Business Committee to revive Council entities

Cllr Brian Matione

By Bothwell Petro

Newly appointed Business Committee Chairperson and Ward 13 Councillor Brian Matione has vowed to revive council businesses to meet demand working in line with the city's vision of becoming a World Class City by 2025.

Cllr Matione said some companies are failing to meet council's demands that they operate as commercial entities.

"The current state of our business is not good. Most of them are underperforming.

"At least City Parking is performing better. We want to resuscitate underperforming business and coming up with innovations for new business ventures and lure potential investors", he said.

He said his committee is already seized with looking at ways to expand council businesses.

"Our major plan is to expand the business portfolio of Council by looking for serious partners to do business with. We will also empower our Business Development Unit," he said.

Cllr Matione said there is need for council businesses to advance technologically in order to move with the 2025 vision.

"There is need for technological advancements in our existing business so that they move in line with our vision. One of the basic tenets of such a city is advanced technology which makes life for our residents easy.

"We should try and make sure clients can access most services in the comfort of their homes or offices.

"Council must venture into businesses that benefit the organization, residents and to improve the face of Harare as the capital city of this country," he said.

Work together to give residents information, Cllr Chipfiwa tells Council departments

By Staff Reporter

Information and Publicity Chairperson Cllr Eugenia Chipfiwa has urged council departments to work together in disseminating information so that residents are informed of Council activities.

Cllr Chipfiwa said it was not good for residents to inform themselves about developments in Council and status of service delivery.

"You will find out that residents notify each other on social media groups in the neighbourhood, be it when a refuse truck comes or water shutdowns which should not be like

"I think we should improve more communication wise, I have noticed in some areas where there is no water, no one knows. Back then council would notify people a day or two before so that they are well prepared but at the mean time it is lacking.

"We should work on that. Each and every department whether it works or health we need to work on that. I appeal to all departments to come together especially on information dissemination," she said.

Chipfiwa, a passionate sports follower, said Council should use sporting facilities and its infrastructure to help market the city.

"I think we should start with the sports policy and then map the way forward. It should give us guidelines on the way forward.

"We will need to see if council schools are still running tournaments. The more tournaments we have, the more we identify talent that can raise the brand of this city.

"We have a lot of athletes that are marketing their cities wherever they go and we can do that a city. Look at Tino Kadewere and Marshall Munetsi and how they are now raising the flag of the City."

"We will start shining from somewhere, we have a lot of facilities that we can use to lure tourists and market the city," she said.

City to commission Chitubu and Highlands clinics

By Praisemore Vhudzi

Harare City Council is set to commission to more health facilities, Chitubu and Highlands Clinics as a way of improving residents' access to primary health services, Acting City Health Director, Dr Kudzai Masunda has said.

Dr Masunda was speaking at a service delivery symposium organised by the Combined Harare Residents' Association (CHRA).

"As a way of improving our services, we are planning on commissioning Chitubu and Highlands clinics before the end of the year and one of the key issues we intend to do is to improve our E-health services. We have already started implementing the Electronic Health Record System," he said.

He said this year the department managed to upgrade two hospitals after securing partnerships to fight the Covid-19 pandemic. Dr Masunda said Council also maintained the availability of essential drugs in its institutions.

"As a department, we have managed to upgrade Wilkins and Beatrice Road Infectious Hospital, mainly these renovations where for Covid-19, but these are also for any other disease because our hospitals are supposed to manage all infectious diseases."

"We have also managed to maintain the availability of essential drugs in our hospitals and to introduce tele-medicine for our residents to have access to medication in the comfort of their homes." He said Council will endeavor to make sure it has essential and enough drugs for primary health care on a cost recovery basis.

"We also wish to increase the availability of essential medicine through accessing health grants from the government and to recover cost of services that are delivered," he said.

Council automates processes to avert corruption

By Dione Danai Zinhu

Council is set to automate processes in the Housing and Community Services Department to minimize human interface and minimize corruption.

In an interview Education, Health, Housing and Licensing Committee chairperson, Cllr Patson Mangwiro-Chikwaka, said the allocation of residential stands has to be transparent.

"As a Committee we are trying to curb human interface by having an electronic housing waiting list since human interface is the cause of corruption which has been affecting the housing department. "We want to see transparency in the allocation of residential stands," he said.

He said his Committee will also spearhead the planning and building of more schools in Harare to improve the student to teacher ratio.

"We are looking at the provision of more land for the construction of primary schools and we have already engaged with some residents and private organisations who are willing to assist us in some of these projects.

"We are also looking at renovating our Early Childhood Development (ECD) facilities that are in a dilapidated state and improve the curriculum to attract more parents so that they will have more faith," said Cllr Mangwiro.

"We are looking forward to engage the private sector in changing the way we have been doing things before. Harare is running short of land so we are planning on having more high rise buildings around Harare," he said.

He said Council was also working on modalities leading to the opening of Council clinics which have been closed due to various.

Mangwiro, said his Committee was also planning on improving sport facilities in and around the city.

Urban Culture and Heritage Institute (UCHI) to promote township tourism in Mbare.

By Rukudzo Musari

Harare City Council has mandated the town clerk authority to negotiate a partnership with Urban Culture and Heritage Institute (UCHI) to promote township tourism in Mbare.

The organisation intends to promote Township Tourism through art. UCHI has partners in Germany and in United States of America who are interested in building urban renewal projects in Harare.

The city's Corporate Communications Manager Mr Michael Chideme told the Information and Publicity Committee that the renewal project was expected to create employment for the local community and promote Harare as a Tourist destination.

"It is our duty to market and promote this destination" he said.

Mr Chideme said local promotion of the art project was lagging behind hence the need to promote the Mbare Art Centre which has sold one of its pieces of artworks to Shawn Corey Carter an International music icon also popularly known as Jay Z.

He further reported that some of the art-works produced at Chiweshe bar have been sold in Europe and the USA.

"Township tourism as it stands incorporates the creation of new companies, bringing development in previously unnoticed places.

"Most importantly, when tourism businesses flourish in communities where people live, it means there is employment creation, culture preservation and diversity as well as promoting integration."

The Committee heard that Heritage and tourism trails are new tourism products in Africa and globally, that are designed to take tourists on a historic memory lane involving a symbolic event or person.

Global statistics from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation(UNESCO), Statistical Unit and United Nations World Tourism Organisation (UNWTO) have indicated that heritage tourism contributes more than 40 percent to world tourism arrivals.

Township tourism is unique to Africa as tourists from the developed world are seeking urban spaces with a rich human history that is rarely found in other parts of the world.
